

Finding Quality Information

By Dean Ross

MSU Extension

Information is the pirate's treasure of the 21st century, those who have it and use it will be the "winners", and those who don't will be the "losers". The question is how to find it, and how to use it. Since the early 1990's, the Internet has actually made available more information in a digital form than is available on paper. If you are interested in the latest information, gathering facts, or finding answers the Internet is the place to look. The following is a short list of websites where dairy related information is available. It is broken down here into general categories, but remember many of these sites also have links to other websites dedicated to more dairy related information (Especially the university related sites) Good Hunting!!
